WHY CHOOSE THIS MASTER

The European Union is playing an increasingly strategic role in shaping policies, sustainability, digital transformation, international cooperation, and economic development. Understanding how its institutions operate and how European policies are designed and implemented has become a valuable asset for professionals across both the public and private sectors.

This Master's Program offers a multidisciplinary approach that combines law, history, economics, political science, and international relations with practical expertise in European funding and Europlanning. Students gain not only a comprehensive understanding of the European Union, but also the operational skills needed to identify funding opportunities, develop successful European projects, and contribute to policy implementation.

Delivered entirely online through UNINETTUNO's innovative e-learning platform, the program combines academic excellence, international perspectives, and maximum flexibility, allowing participants to study from anywhere while engaging with an international learning community.

Career Opportunities

Graduates will be prepared for professional roles in organizations operating at national, European, and international levels, including:

- European institutions and public administrations
- Ministries and governmental agencies
- NGOs and non-profit organizations
- Consulting firms
- International organizations
- Private companies working with European projects and funding
- Public affairs and policy advisory organizations

The program also provides valuable preparation for professionals involved in European project management and Europlanning.

Who should apply

- Graduates interested in European affairs, international relations, and public policy
- Professionals working in public administration or international organizations
- Consultants involved in European projects and funding
- Employees of NGOs and non-profit organizations
